Council Delays Action On Gas Street Lighting

Concerned citizens caused gas pressure to rise so high in city hall last night that the council finally delayed, for the second time, authorizing the installation of new street lights on Dolores between Ocean and Seventh pending further studies of alternatives to the electric incandescent lights atop 30-foot high freeway type standards which were approved on October 6.

Prior to their meeting last night, council members attended a demonstration of gas lighting by the Western Gas Light Co. of Cupertino. Shown was a variety of fixtures suitable for street lights including one which had three lamps on a seven foot standard.

Later, during the regular council meeting, nearly two hours was devoted to debate on gas versus electric lighting, freeway type versus ornamental standards, and other alternatives.

GAS PRO AND CON

Councilman Eben Whittlesey observed that gas lighting involved persons who nostalgically wish to hark back to simpler and more charming times when Carmel was a smaller homogeneous community; also persons who sentimentally desire to produce in Carmel something which is "a little cute, charming and artificial."

Mr. Whittlesey stressed that he did not want to sacrifice the safety of citizens to the installation of any form of dim lighting that will only beautify the city. He added that providing adequate protection under such lighting would mean increasing the police force and number of lights at considerable additional expense to taxpayers.

Councilman Stephen Grant cited cities with gas lighting, such as Folsom and Saratoga, as communities which wish to attract tourists. Any street lighting in Carmel should be for the protection of citizens, not a tourist attraction.

"The more we repel tourists, the more attractive Carmel becomes," he stated.

Councilman Gunnar Norberg agreed that Carmel should take no action to spur tourists to come here but admitted to "various degrees of nostalgia among us." The root of the lighting matter, he contended, was that the people of Carmel do not appear to find the proposed 30-foot high light standards with 6,000 lumen incandescent lights on overhanging arms aesthetically pleasing.

He proposed experimental installation of gas lights in the one block on Dolores even though the cost was $8,000.

"An extra four cents on the tax rate to determine what we like is not a great price to pay," Mr. Norberg declared.

Councilman James Buffington objected to costly experimentation. "We are setting the pattern for the future," he emphasized and added that any expensive lighting in one block would eventually extend throughout the 20-block business district.

Peter R. Darnton, P.G. & E. illuminating engineer, told the council that while gas lighting on low standards was aesthetically pleasing it was not visually effective and would not allow a police officer to turn a corner and have an unobstructed view of a street. The policeman would only see a row of lights.

Councilman Stephen Grant elicited the information from Mr. Darnton that the 6,000 lumen incandescent electric lights proposed for Carmel would in no way compare to other communities in this area where street lights vary in intensity from 21,000 to 90,000 lumens.

New Fire Truck Purchase Approved

The city council adjourned, shortly after midnight, until next Tuesday evening to finish items not considered last evening. The last matter came up when tempers were frayed. It was authorization of requesting bids for a new American La France company fire truck to replace the 37-year-old Mack pumper.

Fire commissioner Eben Whittlesey urged the council to act at once as the price of brass is about to increase and this rise will add $1,800 to the estimated $36,188 price of the completely equipped new machine. He added that the Mack truck is liable to break down at any time and parts have to be made for the ancient engine as none are otherwise available.

Councilman Gunnar Norberg fought for delay in order to get bids from other companies.

Fire Chief Bob Baker said, "We can't wait a week. You have been aware of the fire truck situation for six months. Let's quit playing games."

"If we are to protect property and life we've got to get this piece of equipment," Councilman Stephen Grant said in support.

The motion to ask the American La France company to prepare a bid on the truck passed with Mr. Norberg dissenting.

The truck will be financed under a lease-purchase agreement with the Bank of America over a six-year period. This financing will allow the income from the city's time deposits to finance interest costs. Payments will be $7,000 next year, $6,000 thereafter unless other arrangements are made.

COUNCIL GIVES BUSINESS ASSOCIATION FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE

Last night, the city council voted the sum of $750 to assist the Carmel Business Association. This support will assure matching funds from the Monterey County Board of Supervisors.

The aid was justified, the council considered, because the association answers some 3,000 enquiries about Carmel from all over the country. If the city had to assume this task, additional office space and another city employee would be required.

Councilman Gunnar Norberg voted against the grant.

Last year children gathered in Su Vecino Court to break pinatas. A scene similar to the one above will be repeated when owners of businesses in the Dolores Street complex again hold a similar party on Wednesday night at 7 p.m. for Carmel children seven to 14 years old.

Christmas Tree Will Be Lit On Wednesday Night

Carmel Youth Center members again this year will conduct a ceremony centered on the lighting of the city's official Christmas tree. The tall pine in the Ocean Avenue planting strip at the intersection of Junipero Street will be lit on Wednesday evening. The ceremony, arranged by Pam Baldwin and Kim Roberts, will begin at 7:30 o'clock.

Mayor Herbert Blanks will speak briefly. The Carmel High School Chorus, conducted by John Farr, will sing Christmas carols and a brass quartet will play. As all persons present join in singing "Silent Night," Police Officer Walter Boyle will pull the switch that turns on the lights.

Robert M. Forbes has assisted youth center members in arranging the musical part of the ceremony. Fritz T.V. is setting up the public address system for the young people.

Traditionally, the city's Christmas tree is lit on December 15. Last year, youth center members revived the tree lighting ceremony which dates back to the early days of the town, but had been abandoned for some years.

HORSE AND CARRIAGE DAYS MAY RETURN

Carmel citizens will have an opportunity to decide whether or not they want two-horse-drawn carriages here on January 5 when the city council will hold a public hearing on the request of Jerry Crews and Robert Taylor to operate, for hire, such vehicles. Proposed use is a drive from Carmel along the 17-Mile-Drive and back, also to other locations. The two men asked, too, for two parking spaces on Junipero Street as a basis for their operation.

Trustees Advised School Tax Should Be Increased 77 Cents In Coming Year

In a report to the trustees of the Carmel Unified School District last night, the 1965 Citizen's Finance Committee presented a recommendation to increase the present tax rate by 77 cents per $100 assessed valuation. The increase would be in addition to the present 50 cent tax override and does not include provision for capital improvements which, committee vice chairman F. K. Duhring stated, should be made by bond financing.

In presenting the report, chairman Richard T. Wilsdon emphasized that although the committee had not reached unanimous agreement on the necessity of the tax increase, it had found no indication of extravagance or waste in the operation of the school district. Just to maintain the present program, he said, would require an additional 40 cent tax increase; to improve it along the lines suggested by the administration and the citizens' curriculum committees will necessitate a further increase.

The finance committee, which has met weekly since September 15 to the present, has considered a great deal of written material from the district and from other sources. It has reviewed the present budget with Assistant Superintendent Wayne Greenfield and has questioned Superintendent Medill Bair concerning the operation of the school district.

Because of divergent opinions, each committee member presented an oral report stating the reasons for his vote (there was one "no," vote and one abstention on the recommendation) and offering suggestions as to areas where economies might be effected or alternative means of raising funds might be explored.

Letters of resignation from committee members Joseph McEl-downey and Thomas White were received but not given a public reading. It was the consensus of

Council Approves New Parking Law

With members of the Carmel Business Association giving hearty approval, the city council, last night, gave first reading to a new ordinance establishing off-street parking requirements in the commercial district. This will receive second reading in January, and if approved again at that time, go into effect a month later.

The new law embraces all divisions of the business district: C-1-C, C-1-L, C-1-S and C-2. Its purpose is to require offstreet parking for vehicles used by owners or employees of businesses in the city's commercial zones so as to leave street parking more available to customers also to relieve the owner-employee parking burden in residential areas adjacent to the business zone.

The ordinance applies, however, only to any new structures; all of the floor space of additions to existing structures; increase in floor space within any existing building; alterations, remodeling, repairs or additions exceeding in cost 50 percent of the value of an existing structure.

The number of off-street parking spaces required will be set according to interior floor area of a building. These spaces must be provided on the building site except in the C-1-C zone where no on-site parking will be allowed except with a variance granted by

Leonard Klene Heads County Arts Co-Ordinating Council

A name was chosen, officers elected and a statement of purpose drafted for a new organization to serve the many and varied arts interests of this area at a meeting on December 1. Leonard W. Klene, chairman for the committee for an arts council for the Monterey Peninsula which has been meeting since last May to formulate plans for such an organization, stated that at the meeting last week agreement had been reached regarding the official name and purpose of the organization which is made up of representatives of a number of the art, music and theatre groups in this area.

A decision to call the new organization the Arts Co-ordinating Council of Monterey County was made by the following representatives of local arts groups: Mrs. Alastair MacKay, representing the Carmel Bach Festival; Mrs. Frank G. Ringland, of the board of the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra; Leonard G. Heller, president of the Monterey Peninsula chapter of the American Federation of Arts; Dr. George J. Faul, president Monterey Peninsula College; Edgar Bissantz, Carmel Music Society; Mrs. Le Grand G. Woolley, president, Monterey Peninsula Concert Association; Miss Barbara Cook and Miss Sally Church, White Oaks Theatre.

The name is indicative of the purpose of the group which is to provide a broad basis of representation of the arts organizations of the region capable not only of encouragement and promotion of the practice and appreciation of the arts among the people of Monterey County but to act as a co-ordinating group and a united voice in community affairs concerning the arts.

It was made clear in the statement of purpose drafted at the meeting that the new group is intended to be a service organization that neither interferes with each member organization's autonomy nor encourages duplication of activities that are already available in the community. In particular the new council will in no way interfere with the internal management of any member organization.

Membership in the council will be open to organizations which support a program in the arts within this area, provided they meet one of the following qualifications: be directly engaged in a program in the arts; be organized to support a program carried on by members of the council; or regularly and on a continuing basis contribute to any such program in the arts.

Of primary interest to the newly formed council is the lack of suitable facilities for the arts in the area and consideration of all possible ways and means of providing a better place for many cultural activities to be enjoyed by the interested public.

A recent questionnaire sent to the organizations forming the council regarding their most urgent needs indicates that the majority of them require an auditorium seating at least 1,200 persons, also that all could use rehearsal, classroom, office and library space. One center, which might also include a major art museum and gallery, the council feels, would not only serve the arts but make them more available to the many appreciators of the area.

Officers elected at the December 1 meeting, which was held in the Bach Festival offices in Sunset Center, are Leonard W. Klene, president; Leonard G. Heller, vice-president; Mrs. Alastair MacKay, treasurer; Mrs. Eugene H. Melvin, secretary.

Fresno Couple Wed Here

In a double ring ceremony on the afternoon of November 27, Gertrude Duerksen and George W. Guinn of Fresno were united in marriage by Dr. George Hunter Hall at Carmel Presbyterian Church.

Mark Duerksen of Fresno, a brother of the bride, provided beautiful solos of "Together With Jesus" and "Bless This House."

The bride's gown was of pink lace over satin and on her hair was a matching lace shoulder-length veil. She carried a white family bible upon which rested a bouquet of chrysanthemums centered with a gold-throated white orchid.

Mrs. Rowena Jensen of Oakland was her sister's matron of honor. White accessories complemented her green dress, to which she pinned a white orchid. For Mrs. Jensen, the occasion revived pleasant memories of her role, over two years ago, as maid of honor here for the marriage of her sister-in-law, Valerie Jensen Hattery, to Herbert Heron of Carmel.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Ann Duerksen of Dinuba wore a beige dress of her own design, with white accessories. A gold-throated white orchid was pinned to her shoulder.

Lieutenant J. A. Duerksen of Vandenberg Air Force Base, another brother of the bridegroom, served as best man.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in La Playa Hotel garden room. The bride's table was decorated with delicate pink and white carnations intermingled to form crosses on each side of the wedding cake, representing the bride's faith, Presbyterian, and the bridegroom's, Southern Baptist. After they had cut their three-tiered cake, its top, decorated with bells, was put aside to be stored until their first anniversary. Other tables carried out the pink and white color theme with bouquets of chrysanthemums centered with begonias.

Mrs. Herbert Heron, guest book hostess, was responsible for the wedding arrangements for her friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward W. Jensen also entertained at their Carmel home for the bridal party.

After a brief honeymoon here, the newlyweds returned to Fresno, where Mrs. Guinn is a librarian and her husband is a building contractor.

Alliance Francaise Party

Members, their families and guests of l'Alliance Francaise of the Monterey Peninsula will gather for a Christmas party on December 19 at 7:30 p.m. at the Institute of Foreign Studies in Monterey. Henri Corbat, the newly elected president, will preside.

The highlight of the buffet table will be a beautiful Buche de Noel (Yule log cake).

Each person is asked to bring a small gift to put under the Christmas tree. The gifts will be exchanged after the program and before the refreshments are served.

Mrs. James L. Hathaway, one of the vice presidents of l'Alliance, entertained the ladies of the group at the December tea-and-conversation at her Pacific Grove home. French records were played and conversation was, as usual, in French.

Attended Official Dinner

Among Carmelites who attended the dinner in honor of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey at the Fairmont Hotel in San Francisco on Friday were Senator Fred S. Farr and Mr. and Mrs. Gerald V. Barron. Mary Barron accompanied her parents to the city to see again her friend since birth, Mr. Humphrey, who as a U.S. Senator several years ago entertained Mary and other members of her family at lunch in the Senate dining room in Washington, D.C.

On USS Firedrake

Machinist Mate/Fireman Fred-eric C. Wells is serving aboard the USS Firedrake which is now in the South Pacific en route to Viet Nam. Fred, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wells of Carmel, joined the Navy after graduating from Carmel High School in 1964.

The Bowmans Entertained

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bowman (Nancy Ness Bowman) entertained nine members of the White Oaks Theatre Professional Acting Workshop last week at their Carmel home. Mrs. Bowman instructs the young people in voice as part of their singing-acting-dancing work at the Carmel Valley theatre.

The students, who rounded out the evening's festivities by singing solos for the group, were treated to a smorgasbord, especially prepared by Mrs. Bowman, which included smoked ham, Norwegian meatballs, pies and an unusual, delicious Norwegian dessert.

Those present were Tracy Carr, Karin Gjording, Mary Pattie, Karen Kondan, Linda Boblitt, Gale Peterson, Ron Mitchell, Martin Herzer, Paul Wagner and Fred Schaad, who accompanied the songfest on piano.

Joins NPGS Staff

Professor Stephen M. Pollock, former research consultant to Arthur D. Little Inc. of Cambridge, Massachusetts, has joined the staff of the Naval Postgraduate School as an associate professor in the operations analysis department. His current research is concerned with the investigation of analytical techniques applicable to naval operational problems.

Dr. Pollock and his family are residents of South Carmel Hills.

He received his bachelor's degree in engineering physics at Cornell University, later earned his M.S. and Ph.D. degrees at Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Dr. Pollock is a member of Sigma Xi, the Operations Research Society of America and the Institute of Management Sciences.

Christian Women's Tea

Mrs. Woodrom Rood of Oakland will be guest speaker at the Monterey County Christian Women's Club Christmas tea on Tuesday from 1 to 3 p.m. at the Carmel Woman's Club.

At this annual event there will also be a special musical program featuring Mrs. Ned Holmgren, Mrs. Sal DiMercurio and Mrs. Dennis Gorman.

Free baby nursery care will be provided at the Monterey Methodist Church on Soledad Drive in Monterey. All women are invited to attend the tea, and reservations for it and the nursery may be made through Mrs. Donald Hardy (372-8973) or Mrs. Dave Currie (624-4877) not later than Saturday.

Meals-For-Millions Luncheon On Sunday

Invitations have been issued by the Monterey Peninsula Committee of Meals-for-Millions to a champagne brunch at La Playa Hotel on Sunday from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. A film will be shown, narrated in part by actor Eddie Albert.

Meals-for-Millions, a private, non-profit organization, was founded in 1946 by Clifford E. Clinton of Los Angeles and a group of business leaders for the relief and prevention of starvation. It introduced to the world Multi-Purpose-Food, developed in 1944 by Dr. Henry Borsook, professor of biochemistry at California Institute of Technology. M-P-F, a highly nutritious, low cost and readily palatable food, has been distributed in 129 countries through national and international relief, welfare and religious agencies and several countries are now able to produce it. The ultimate goal of Meals-for-Millions is to encourage such local production from indigenous resources to enable each country to feed its own people.

The national organization works through local Meals-for-Millions affiliates in various foreign countries to educate people on nutrition problems and to stimulate action in doing something about them.

M-F-M is registered with the advisory committee on voluntary foreign aid of the agency for international development of the

The old woman, Lise, (Linda Boblitt) warns the Princess Angeline (Chris Flynn) and her father, the King, (Ron Stark) of the evil schemes of her master, the Enchanter, in a scene from "Puss in Boots," above, by the Fantasy Players of White Oaks Theatre who present the children's show Sunday afternoons at 2:30 p.m.

Highlights of the White Oaks Theatre presentation of "Puss in Boots" are the readily movable stage sets by scenic and lighting director Joan Larkey.

When touring with the children's show, White Oaks Fantasy Players can easily transport four collapsible background pieces, a rolling platform, small curtain, and multi-purpose seat.

The four background pieces are not one-dimensional but three-sided with each surface being the backdrop for a different scene. They can be easily rotated by actors for scene changes.

Miss Larkey points out that such an innovation dispenses with the need for blackouts in halls or auditoriums where the touring show faces minimal lighting facilities. The characters can, in full view of the audience, move the scenery without disturbing the dramatic balance of the production.

U.S. Department of State, and as a voluntary agency cooperating in the technical assistance program.

Mrs. Elaine Johnson, sociology instructor at Monterey Peninsula College, is chairman pro-tem of the local committee.

Anyone interested in further information or in attending the Sunday brunch may phone Mrs. Margaret Stebbins (624-2409).

Pacific Telephone Largest Taxpayer

Pacific Telephone tomorrow will pay Monterey County the first installment of a $1,374,187.24 property tax bill, according to the company's local manager, W. G. Bryant.

The first installment this year amounted to $687,093.62 and a check for that amount was sent to Orville N. Molmen, Monterey County tax collector. The second installment for the same amount will be paid next April.

This year's tax is $132,516.97 more than a year ago, an increase of 10.7 per cent. It is up $485,- 335 over five years ago, an increase of 54.6 per cent.

Of the installment paid tomorrow, taxes for general county, school and special district purposes amounted to $601,204.22. Molmen also was sent city taxes for Carmel amounting to $3,929.47.

Pacific Telephone is the largest property taxpayer in the state. The company's total property tax bill in California for fiscal 1965-66 will be $120 million, up $5.4 million or 4.7 per cent over last year and $38.7 million or 48 per cent over five years ago.

One of the great stretches of coast in all the world has been interpreted by outstanding photographers of the natural world, most of whom have lived with it. Some of their finest work is reinforced by poems and excerpts of poems by Robinson Jeffers. The Sierra Club published this book out of concern for what is happening to the Big Sur Coast and to the remaining wild coastlands everywhere. As Lawrence Clark Powell puts it, "The Sierra Club has inherited from Robinson Jeffers the role as spokesman against the unbridled progress that threatens our vanishing wilderness and even the sanctity of our National Parks."

Party Plans

By Phyllis Jervey

The centuries old traditional Pinata Fiesta of Mexico is carried over into California and especially to Carmel. On December 15 at 7 p.m., children not over 12 years old are invited to enjoy such a festive event at Su Vecino Court. Pinatas are containers concealed in lovely and amusing papier mache figures.

Bundled youngsters vie to crack the pinata with a baseball bat. They wildly whack away until it breaks and gifts scatter about among shrieks of delight. Howard Boone of Su Vecino Court starts the festivities while Lieutenant Colonel Richard Taylor will come from Reno again to be the "Controller General." The Carmel Youth Center will also lend a helping hand to gently curb any over-excited children. Great fun is assured by August Nieto, Herman Ayala and other hosts of the court.

This year, four beautiful pinatas have been handmade by the staff of Su Vecino's Mexican cafe. They are Pinocchio, Humpty Dumpty, a guitar and a ship. These will be on display during the preceding week on the balcony above Su Vecino Court. Additional pinatas, imported by Carmel's International Market, will also be donated. There will, of course, be the always muchly admired creche which makes the Christmas scene complete.

Chick ("Chico") Adamick, master mixologist of the Aztec Room, will prepare the specialty of the house "margarita" cocktails and other adult beverages. The youngsters will sip orange juice or soft drinks. And everyone may relish the following Mexican dishes served at Su Vecino. These are also fortunately available to take home and enjoy before your own fireplace.

Herman Ayala, proprietor of Su Vecino's popular cafe, gave us the explicit directions for the typical Mexican fare.

PINATA PARTY

Chico's Margarita Cocktails
Tacos—Enchiladas—Fried Beans
Spanish Rice
Chiles Rellenos
American and Mexican Beer
Coffee — Chocolate Mexicano

CHICO'S MARGARITA COCKTAIL

(Serves One)

1½ oz. Tequila; 1½ oz. lemon juice; dash of Cointreau; salt. Strain into chilled cocktail glass rimmed with salt.

This is the toast to go with the margaritas. Salud y pesetas y tiempo para gastarlos! (Health and money and time in which to spend them!)

HERMAN'S TACOS ENCHILADAS AND CHILES RELLENOS

(This mixture makes 10 of each)
10 lbs. lean ground round beef; 1½ cups water; 3 lbs. chopped peeled onions; ½ cup canned tomato puree; 10 tbsps. chili powder; ½ cup, each, salt, pepper, Accent and celery salt; 3 tbsps. garlic salt; shredded lettuce; grated cheddar cheese; green chili salsa.

Saute ground beef in large Dutch oven with 1½ cups water so it won't burn on bottom. Add onions and tomato puree; simmer and stir until redness is almost gone from meat, then add chili powder and other seasonings. Continue to simmer until well done without scorching. Watch and stir!

For Tacos, use large iron skillet in which to dip canned tortillas. Use hot peanut oil to submerge tortillas. With ice tongs, keep tortillas (each one cooked separately) moving until they change from a limber to slightly stiffened stage, but not really hard as they will toughen. Pull each one out, lay it flat on a hot dish. Have large cooking spoonful of hot meat mixture ready to place on top of each tortilla. Add a little extra heated tomato puree and some shredded lettuce with grated cheddar cheese and canned green chili salsa. Fold over and keep in heated oven, briefly. Far better to serve tacos at once. And at "Su Vecino" this is what happens, but pronto!

To make 10 Enchiladas, use rest of meat mixture. Heat one 1-lb. 12-oz. can Mexican red chili sauce diluted with a little water. Add 2 tbsps. peanut oil. Bring to a slow boil; drop each tortilla into sauce, leaving it only long enough to be pliable. If it remains too long it will disintegrate. Fill each tortilla with heated meat mixture (the same one used for tacos). Roll each enchilada with 2 forks. These are softer than tacos due to heated sauce. In remaining sauce add mild cheddar cheese mixed with Monterey Jack (both shredded). Reheat over hot water. Pour mixture onto each enchilada. Decorate with pitted large ripe olives and radish roses. Always serve on piping hot platters, but be careful!

For 10 Chiles Rellenos, cut 2 lbs. Monterey Jack cheese into 2x2 inch squares, ½ inch thick. Open canned green chiles, drain and place a piece of cheese into each chili. Sprinkle salt on outside. Beat 7 egg whites with a little salt until stiff. Add beaten egg yolks with ½ cup pancake flour mix. The Su Vecino secret is to pour 3 tbsps. egg mixture into a small bowl, dip each cheese-stuffed chili into this. Then slip each batter-covered chili into hot peanut oil in a deep-fry kettle. Cook until crisp and drain on paper towels. Keep briefly in hot oven if necessary. Serve with heated tomato puree on top. Garnish with minced raw onions and strips of canned green chiles. Serve with tostadas (pieces of deep-fried crisp tortillas) in little baskets.

The easiest way is to use packaged Spanish rice; otherwise add tomato sauce, minced onions and garlic to cook seasoned rice and stir lightly until crisp. For the Fried Beans, cook pink pinto beans in water to cover. Simmer; never boil. Add salt to taste the last half hour of cooking. Cool, then refrigerate. Then add peanut oil, canned Mexican chile sauce, cut up Monterey Jack cheese; smash together with a "petate," or potato masher, and fry gently. Measurements depend on amounts. Look on package of dried beans for accuracy, otherwise use the trial-

Sierra Club Film Show This Evening

The conservation and education committees of the Ventana Chapter of the Sierra Club have arranged for a free film show of outstanding films on three areas of public concern, that of creation of national parks within the redwood country and the Northern Cascades and the elimination of proposed dams on the Colorado River. The films, "War in the Redwoods," "Glen Canyon," and "Wilderness Alps of Stehekin," will be shown tonight at 8 p.m. in the Pacific Grove Junior High School auditorium, Pacific Grove.

The Ventana Chapter was formed less than three years ago and its membership includes over 600 individuals throughout Monterey County. The chapter's activities include weekend hiking trips, day walks, climbing trips, within the Los Padres National Forest, the Sierra and other points, an annual County Fair exhibit, dinner meetings, slide and motion picture film showings and maintenance of a speakers bureau from which representatives of the club by-taste method.

Even in Carmel it may become chilly on Pinata Party Night so let's have Chocolate Mexicano as a warmer up.

SU VECINO CHOCOLATE MEXICANO

(Serves 8)

4 oz. (4 sq.) chocolate, grated; 1 cup water; 1 cup milk; 1 cup firmly packed brown sugar; 1½ tps. vanilla extract; 1 tsp. cinnamon; ¼ tsp. salt; 3 cups milk.

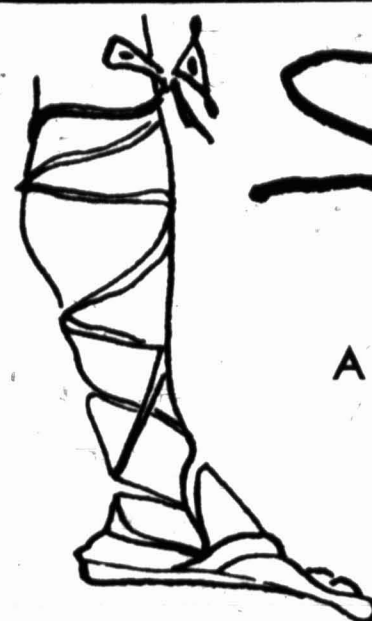

Combine chocolate and water in top of double boiler. Heat over simmering water, stir frequently for 30 min. Meanwhile, mix together and set aside 1 cup milk with 1/3 cup firmly packed brown sugar. When chocolate mixture has cooked, add the milk mixture together with vanilla, cinnamon and salt. Add gradually, stirring in rest of milk. Continue heating over simmering water until scalding hot. Muy Buenas Noches! This should do it, Carmel-wise.

Carmel Hostelry Owners Recruit Visitors' Help In Refinery Fight

William Sefton, chairman of the Six Cities Fund's visitor industry task force, announced last week that Carmel Hotel and Motel Association members have initiated a plan to recruit Monterey Peninsula visitors in the anti-Humble Oil refinery movement.

Posters headed "Danger—Smog Ahead!" are being distributed to hotels, motels and restaurants throughout the Peninsula to alert visitors to the problem. Six Cities Fund self-addressed envelopes containing a brief outline of events leading up to the referendum movement will be supplied along with the posters. These can be used for both contributions and suggestions.

In making his announcement, Mr. Sefton stated that the concern registered by visitors who had learned of the Humble Oil refinery threat had sparked this effort to enlist support from Monterey Peninsula visitors. The Six Cities Fund Committee has been soliciting assistance from a variety of sources to help defray the legal and promotional costs involved in bringing the Humble Oil issue to a referendum. It has been estimated that between $30,000 and $69,000 will be needed depending on the duration of the fight.

Mr. Sefton also disclosed that his group is working out arrangements with members of the business community to aid in this fund raising project. He asked that every organization, concern and individual in the area that wants to take action, join in the effort. "It is our responsibility to protect Monterey County's natural resources, not only for ourselves but for future clean and constructive industries, so that we can be assured of continuing county-wide growth," he stated.

Individual contributions to the Six Cities Fund may be sent directly to Box 1915, Carmel.

UNICEF CARDS

UNICEF Christmas cards and calendars will be on sale this week and next at the Carmel Craft Studios. Co-chairmen in charge of volunteers for the activity are Mrs. Douglas Duke of Carmel and Mrs. Hope Matilla of Monterey.

8:30 p.m.

The band program, conducted by Henry Smith will include "American Salute" by Morton Gould, "Moses," from "Portraits of the Bible" by Julian Work, "Music for a Festival" by Gordon Jacobs, "Costa Rican Dances" by Jose Quesada, "Thunder Song" by Finlayson and "Black Horse Troop" by John Philip Sousa.

Student John Magee, trumpet soloist, will be featured in "Dramatic Essay" by Joseph Wilcox Jenkins.

The December 14 chamber music program will include the Beethoven String Trio, Opus 9, No. 1; Mozart Flute Quartet in D Major; and Brahms Piano Quartet, Opus 60 in C Minor.

Composer of the mass on December 17 is Patrick H. Poole, a counselor and psychology instructor at the college who has also been thoroughly trained in vocal and instrumental music and composition.

Wording of the mass was drawn from the Anglican liturgy. It will be presented in four parts: Kyrie (Lord have mercy on us); Sanctus (Holy, holy, holy); Agnus Dei (O Lamb of God); and Gloria in Excelsis (Glory be to God on High). The character of the music is contemporary, according to Mr. Poole.

Conducted by Dr. Harvey Marshall, the MPC Chorus will also present a longer work during the same Christmas concert: "Canticle of Christmas" by Vittorio Giannini, chairman of the music department at the state-supported School of the Arts in Winston-Salem, N.C. Student Norman Cotton will be featured as baritone soloist in this work.

Carmel Resident Heads Tri-County Mills Campaign

To achieve its announced goals for the next decade, Mills College needs $23.5 million and alumnae of the institution, especially the Alumnae Council, are assuming an active role in the fund campaign. Among these Mills graduates is Mrs. L. Bruce Meyer of Carmel, who will be area chairman for Monterey, San Benito and Santa Cruz counties.

Early this Fall, the college completed the first year of its Challenge Fund campaign with 64% of its $10 million goal already accomplished. Edgar Kaiser, National chairman of the program, announced that a fiscal year total of over $6,400,000 in cash, pledges and matching funds have been received.

The capital fund effort, first announced in July, 1964, was immediately encouraged by a Ford Foundation Challenge Grant of $2.2 million. The grant carries a proviso that Mills, second oldest women's college in the United States, must obtain at least three times that amount from other sources before June 30, 1967.

According to Mills President C. Easton Rothwell, these funds have enabled the college to launch exciting new academic programs, strengthen the faculty and start construction on several new buildings. Also, deserving students with special talents and backgrounds who might not otherwise have been able to enroll are being brought to Mills.

KRML Will Be KSUR When New Owners Start Broadcasting

Following FCC approval, the sale of radio Station KRML has been completed. New call letters, KSUR, have been applied for and new owners of the daytime station, which has been off the air since April of this year, are assembling a staff in preparation for the resumption of broadcasting about the first of the new year. The sale also included a construction permit.

The new owners of KSUR Inc. include some well known figures in local broadcasting circles. Among them are Alan Lisser, one-time newsman and commentator for KFI, KGBS and KFRC, also former vice president in charge of programming and operations for KBIG, and presently co-owner of KBUB in the Reno, Nevada area. Another owner is Cliff Gill who resides in Los Angeles and is engaged in extensive oil and real estate operations and was for many years chairman of the NAB Radio Code Review Board, also founder and former president of KEZY, the Disneyland Hotel station in Anaheim. He is former vice-president and general manager for the John Poole Broadcasting Co., and presently vice president of KCEE, Tucson, Arizona. Lisle Sheldon, a third owner, has been radio and television director of the Los Angeles County Fair for many years. He has had various radio station interests in the Los Angeles area and runs his own advertising agency in Los Angeles, also is a co-owner of KBUB.

David S. Drubeck, a fourth owner, is president of KCEE, Tucson, Arizona, whose successful format of good music, strong news, and interesting features for that station will set the pattern for KSUR programming.

will be the south end of the Highway One bridge over the river and the time will be 9 a.m. First members will observe birds downstream on the south river bank then return to the bridge before going to the mouth of the river for more bird watching. Telescopes will be set up on the Carmel River Beach State Park parking lot from noon until 3 p.m. Those who so desire may bring picnic lunches.

NEW THEATRE 'LAUNCHED' IN CARMEL

Construction work began last week on Carmel's Village Theatre, a unique 414-seat cinema to be erected near the corner of Dolores and Seventh streets.

Co-owners and other principals involved in the venture, seen above, gathered at the site for a champagne toast to the project. On hand for the "launching ceremony" were Arthur Strasburger Jr.

and Jack Martin, at right, owners of Carmel Realty Company, who have worked for six years handling negotiations for the new theatre, including leasing, financing, arranging for designs, and other elements of preparation. They are also joint owners of the land, with James Doud and Howard Brunn. Also present were two of the theatre's co-owners, Tom Graff, center, and Ed Dickinson, both Carmel residents. Mr. Graff has a 25-year background in theatre work, including an association with Universal Pictures. He also managed the Orpheum, United Artists and Esquire theatres in San Francisco, as well as the old Carmel Theatre and the Golden Bough Cinema. Mr. Dickinson graduated from San Jose State, where he majored in the study of radio and television. He was for ten years a well-known radio personality on the Peninsula. A third owner is Nicholas Pecora, a Fresno school principal who will retire in Carmel.

Mayor Herbert Blanks was present to wish the project well and is inspecting the shovel in the picture. Harold Nielsen, left, of Nielsen Bros Market Inc., who will own the new store adjacent to the theatre building, furnished the champagne for the "launching."

Designer for the $150,000 structure is Kipp Stewart and the architect is George Wilcox, with Geyer Construction as contractor. Carmel's Village Theatre will be unique in design throughout. Projection equipment will be of the new Norelco "pulsed-light" type, the second of its kind to be installed in California. It is the first to provide a flickerless picture on the screen. Seating will be unusual too, in a new design by the Heywood Wakefield Co. In fact, all equipment will be the latest and finest available today.

This will be the Peninsula's first all-new theatre to be constructed in the last 14 years. Plans call for opening in April, 1966. Kipp Stewart's model of the theatre is now on display in the window of the Carmel Realty Company on Dolores near Sixth.

past eight years, she was born in Beloit, Wisconsin, on August 5, 1896. She is survived by her husband, Frank Ratcliffe of Carmel Highlands; two sons, Dr. John W. Ratcliffe of San Mateo and Allen T. Ratcliffe of Bay Village, Ohio; a sister, Mrs. J. B. Barnes of Tiffin, Ohio; and a brother, L. Waldo Thompson of Rockton, Illinois.

Funeral services and burial will take place in Beloit, Wisconsin. The Mission Mortuary was in charge of local arrangements.

Special Soloists, Choral Society And Symphony Chamber Orchestra To Perform Oratorio At Mission

An annual gift from the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra to this community, also to Bach enthusiasts from all parts of California, for the fourth consecutive year will be a presentation of Bach's great Christmas Oratorio in Carmel Mission Basilica.

On Sunday, Symphony Conductor John Gosling will direct the Symphony Chamber Orchestra and the Monterey Peninsula Choral Society of 85 voices, also vocal instrumentalists from San Francisco and the East Bay area, in this work.

Because of its length, the oratorio will be presented in two parts. There will be a matinee at 2:30 p.m. and an evening performance at 8 p.m. Both presentations will be open to the public without charge.

Vocal soloists will be Leona Gordon, Claudine Carlson, Charles Stone and Marven Klebe.

Leona Gordon, soprano, winner of the East Bay Regional Memorial auditions of the San Francisco Opera Company has been a guest artist with the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra. Following the world premiere of Marc Lavry's "Queen Esther" at the San Francisco War Memorial Opera House, the San Francisco Chronicle's Alfred Frankenstein wrote: "The beautiful aria for 'Queen Esther' struck me as being the finest single episode in the entire work, perhaps because Leona Gordon sang it with such refinement, intensity and beauty of tone."

Claudine Carlson, mezzo-soprano, received her training in Southern California, Latin America and San Francisco. Her recitals on the concert platform and on television have won vast audience and repeat engagements for the young singer. Miss Carlson was national winner of the N.F.M.C. 26th Biennial Young Artist Audition. Concert tours have taken her throughout the United States and to Central and South America.

Tenor Charles Stone has won unique acclaim as a concert performer of the great oratorios. His repertoire includes the lead role in "Israel in Egypt," the "Stabat Mater" and "Verdi's Requiem." He has also earned great popularity with his dramatic singing of operatic roles at San Francisco's Bocca Ball where he is currently the featured artist.

Winner of the Metropolitan Opera Auditions and of the San Francisco Opera Auditions in 1962, baritone Marven Klebe began his music training at St. Olaf College and the University of Minnesota where he received his B.A. degree. Following study in Europe, Mr. Klebe made his first appearance on the west coast where he has won critical praise in operatic roles as well as for his performances in oratorios—as a fine actor, a thorough musician and inspired singer.

Instrumental soloists include favorites of Monterey Peninsula symphony audiences — Raymond Fabrizio, flute; Margaret Fabrizio, harpsichord; Charles Price, oboe d'amour; Ernest Smith, trumpet; John Wittenberg, violin, and Helen Stross, cello.

The Monterey Peninsula Choral Society was organized by the symphony's music director and conductor, John Gosling, in 1963. Its membership is composed of vocalists from all parts of the county, a number of whom have had experience in European choral groups.

Violinist Igor Oistrakh Lacked Flair In Music Society Concert

BY JACK BENSON

The Carmel Music Society opened its 39th season last Friday evening, presenting Igor Oistrakh, a brilliant young Russian violinist. He is the son of one of the most famous violinists of this age, David Oistrakh. Appearing with Oistrakh was the pianist Natalia Zertsalova, his wife. In such a grateful familial setting one might expect great things from Igor Oistrakh and his very talented spouse, and when it came to strong, sound music making and superb musical rapport the audience in Sunset auditorium was not disappointed.

A sturdy program was chosen by the young artists, the first half consisting of sonatas by Mozart and Beethoven. The former was turned out with much zest and charm, the final movement (Rondo: Allegro) being taken at such break-neck speed, however, that one wondered what the players were aiming at—Mozart or the moon.

In both sonatas, but particularly in the Beethoven, the piano part is equally demanding to that of the violin and Natalia Zertsalova revealed a splendid virtuosity at every turn. Beethoven gives no quarter in his compositions; the Oistrakhs gave none back.

Following intermission Igor Oistrakh returned to the stage alone to perform Bach's Partita No. 3 for solo violin. He played through each of the seven movements in a suave, cool, almost peremptory manner. That this younger Oistrakh is a real "pro" there is little doubt. It is as though he was born to play the fiddle and has been playing it all his life, which, of course, is the actual fact. Everything is there: technique, tone, style, and as a bonus, a beautiful Guarneri instrument. What, then, is missing? This is a difficult question, in the realm of "feeling," and, we suspect, psychology. The best word we can come up with is flair; that spark of discernment, that instinctive power in combining taste with aptitude.

Igor Oistrakh is meticulously trained, musically enlightened and bold, technically strong and secure. Yes. So, what else? Well, he doesn't swing. That's all. Not until the very end when the entertainment started did the audience come up with anything like an ovation. This was in response to showpieces by Sarasate, and two encores by Vieuxtemps and Paganini.

Council Approves New Parking Law

the board of adjustments. In the other three business zones, off-street, off-site parking will be allowed with a similar variance.

Grant Sandquist objected, during the council's public hearing on the new law, to proposed in-lieu payments for businesses which cannot provide parking on or off-site. This provision would require payment to the city of an amount equal to the cost of the number of parking places demanded by the ordinance. The council will evaluate, annually, the cost of each such space. The money thus accrued will be placed in a special in-lieu fund to provide municipal parking facilities.

Mrs. Isabel Tostevin, former president, and Don Crosby, a member of the Carmel Business Association, told the council this group approves the new ordinance as it will provide much needed on-street customer parking.

Council Delays Action On City Street Lights

Mayor Blanks obtained from Mrs. Marjorie Doctor of the firm which put on the gas lighting display that this type of lamp is "distinctive" but cannot replace the brilliance of electric lighting. Mrs. Dorothy Chapman urged the council to adopt lights bright enough for public safety; lights that would shine across streets and into doorways.

COMPARATIVE COSTS

Then Carvel Baldwin, chairman of the Klenke Committee, who caused the council to delay authorization of the new electric lights last month, presented comparative figures for both gas and electric lighting on Dolores between Ocean and Seventh. These figures contrasted sharply to those presented by the P.G.&E. for gas service (approximately $8,000) reported in the Pine Cone last week. His figures also showed little difference between gas lighting and the already approved electric lights.

Mr. Baldwin stated he had "firm figures" that nine gas lamps purchased from the Wellsbach Corporation of Philadelphia would amount to $1,548. Preparation for installation of the lights by Granite Construction Company would cost $635. Nine P.G.&E. gas service installations would amount to $675. Total cost of obtaining gas lighting for the Dolores Street block, $2,858.

Total cost for P.G.&E. installation of five freeway-type 30-foot standards and 6,000 lumen electric lights in the same block will be $1,911.

"We believe that from information we have, that Pacific Gas and Electric Co. should install the above mentioned gas lamps at no cost to the City of Carmel. To our knowledge, in southern California the Southern California Gas Co. does installations without cost to the consumer. In many other cities throughout the United States as well, privately owned gas suppliers have provided this type of installation without cost to the city," Mr. Baldwin's report concluded.

BUSINESSMEN SPEAK

William Sefton, head of the Carmel Motel and Hotel Association, told the council this organization does not want to see any lessening "of existing niceties" in Carmel. He prophesied a "great white way" could develop in Carmel unless the street lighting problem is carefully handled so as not to lose the "aesthetic atmosphere" of the city. No matter how bright street lights may be, they do not deter burglaries, he maintained.

"Our primary concern is that whether gas or electric lights are chosen the values of Carmel are preserved," he stated.

Mr. Baldwin said that Ashton Stanley of Colonial Terrace favored gas lighting. Don Crosby, representing the Carmel Business Association, said this group definitely want lighting but not "Monterey-type" lights. James Rowe, Dolores Street merchant, stated he was delighted to see something was being done about street lighting and hoped the best type for the town would be chosen, whatever it might be. "Personally, I like the look of gas," he added.

William Jennings, another merchant, told the council "most merchants think 30-foot standards are not becoming to Carmel." He did not advocate Mr. Baldwin's gas lighting proposals, only decorative light standards.

Warren, who teaches in the Pacific Grove school system, and August Nieto, real estate broker, was of the opinion that the type of lighting in the Dolores Street block should not set a precedent for other business district blocks. He advocated variation by blocks and possible bracket-type lights on buildings elsewhere.

ALTERNATIVES

Alternatives to the gas and electric lighting discussed last night were proposed by Mr. Darnton. He said gas lamp standards could be adapted to electricity. Lights on brackets attached to buildings at a nine-foot height were possible but would lead to operation and control problems as they would involve use of private property. Laminated wood light standards were obtainable. These gave a "warm feeling" like a tree trunk. He also stated that light poles placed close to buildings with lights overhanging the sidewalk were possible lighting installations.

Police Chief Clyde Klaumann's contribution to the discussion was: "There are too many dark places where people can lurk. I am hired to protect life and property. I'd like a little help. I do not care what kind of street lighting is provided as long as it is uniform. Otherwise why have any?" Uniformity, he defined as enough light on all street areas and visibility to allow a policeman to see down a street when he turned a corner. Mayor Blanks concluded the discussion by saying,

"I do feel the first responsibility is the safety of the public. We have to achieve this with as great aesthetic appreciation as is possible. There may be an acceptable alternative to gas lights and electric lights on 30-foot poles."

He asked Mr. Darnton and Mr. Baldwin to meet with the council's lands and improvements committee during the next month to discuss specific alternatives to both types of lighting. Following this study, the council will again consider authorizing the installation of street lights on Dolores below Ocean.

Both Warren and Bob attended Carmel schools. Warren is the son of Mrs. Hildreth Hare of Carmel. Bob's mother is Mrs. Marion Douglas of Carmel Highlands. Both young men married Carmel girls. Warren's wife is the former Vivian Davis and Bob's wife is the former Melinda Scheffer.

Excellence Of County Symphony Shown Again In Second Concert

BY JACK BENSON

The Monterey County Symphony Orchestra honored its founding members in the second pair of concerts of the current season. The program, first presented in Salinas last Monday evening and repeated in Carmel on Tuesday, was dedicated to the musicians and supporters of the orchestra in its early years. John Gosling, music director, hailed those whose talent, vision, and loyalty has made the county-wide organization a proud reality of today.

Gosling first named the players who have been in the orchestra since 1940 and asked them to rise, to warm applause from the audience. He then called forth the first five conductors of the Monterey County Symphony: Lorell McCann, Robert Nagler, Keith McKillop, Frank Young, and Harold Bartlett. These men initiated the first concert season. Following the war Leon Minear, Clifford Anderson, and Lorell McCann shared the podium. Clifford Anderson was chosen to represent and honor these gentlemen by conducting the Trumpet Voluntary by Henry Purcell.

The guest artist of the two concerts was soprano Alma Bonner. She sang two sets of songs, the first entitled "Bouquet d'Algues" (Bouquet of Seaweed) by Serge de Gastyne, who is a member of the Air Force Band in Washington, D.C. The work is dedicated to Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy, and the performance here was its West Coast premiere. Richly orchestrated, "Bouquet d'Algues" is cast in the style of much American music earlier in the century.

Miss Bonner also sang "Four

Last Songs" by Richard Strauss, and in these as in the de Gastyne she displayed a rich vocal style which blended excellently with the orchestra. There were moments, however, when she blended too well and melted into the orchestral texture so that her voice was barely audible.

It was another big night for the orchestra as well. Large works opened and closed the concert, wherein the excellence of this season's symphony was shown again. Bach's Passacaglia and Fugue in C Minor and the Overture Fantasy, Romeo and Juliet by Tchaikowsky were given solid and splendid performances under Maestro Gosling's baton.

TOWN HOUSE PROGRAM

The public is invited to a program of Christmas music at the Carmel Foundation Town House on Wednesday at 3 p.m. The musical event will be presented by Mary Margaret Graham, soprano, Nancy Ballard, harpist, and a string ensemble composed of Sheila Webster, violin, Helen Shutes, viola, and Sharon Lockett, cello.

Tea will be served after the program.
